Two brothers, Hoon and Ron, set off to find the surface of their world after being bored by their carefree childhood. They come across a mysterious girl, Altina, who seems to be sheltering from a storm. Hoon and Ron take her into their safe haven, the rainforest. The first half hour is an exploration of the environment and the characters. The second half is a rollicking story of Hoon and Ron rescuing Altina. The objective of the game is to uncover the mystery behind the storm. You move Hoon and Ron around the rainforest level by tapping. Tapping on the ground allows the two brothers to jump. Tapping on trees creates ruckus and wake up nearby enemies and bosses. Tapping on objects gives the player a unique item. There are many hidden areas, including a huge warehouse under the rainforest, where you can obtain items and new stages. As you make progress through the levels, you'll notice that the environment changes. After the mysterious girl Altina is found, she will follow Hoon and Ron around, and it's up to you to figure out how she fits into the world. What's Different? - The environment of each area is real, and it changes as you explore. - The various characters in the game – Altina, Hoon and Ron – respond to their environment. Sometimes they'll be scared of things that are out of the ordinary. Sometimes they'll be oblivious. All of their stories are completely different depending on the area. - The story of Lair Land Story is told in two chapters. Each chapter is an introduction to what's to come. The rest of the game isn't exactly the same as the first half, but the beginning does still play out like a traditional role-playing game. Characters Altina (M): The main character, Altina is a young girl who has been living alone in the rainforest for several days. Hoon (M): A timid, good-natured boy who's been living in the rainforest for his entire life. But he's finally got an interesting adventure to tell his old man about. Ron (M): A willful, adventurous boy who's been living in the rainforest since childhood. Ron has always been looking for adventure. With Altina in tow, he

 (3 of 4) I post these puzzles every week or so. I wish I could say I am getting better at them, but sadly I only post good puzzles occasionally. I haven't solved any "very-hard" puzzles in over a month, but this puzzle is a great one to jump back in to. With one exception, the puzzle wasn't that hard. Yes, it's a bit harder than the previous puzzles I posted, but my brainpower is still very high. It's also a good one to share. What puzzles are you waiting for? Additional Notes: All of the roams can be achieved by using either 3 or 4 tiles at a time. I also don't think there are any misses or real mistakes, just some skills required to solve the puzzle. I've numbered the roams, and only numbered two of the two non-roam parts of the puzzle. That way we can see immediately which roams might go elsewhere. But do note that any one of the numbered areas could be difficult to access! Make sure you take your time on this one. Please vote or share if you like them, and make sure to come back for the next one, whenever it's ready. This puzzle is a relatively easy one. It doesn't require leaping, but it does require a lot of clarity. You can jump from any roam to any other roam at any time, which means the roams become irrelevant. Is that good? It depends. Here's what I mean. Here are two roams which don't cross over. They can be used any time we want, as we've already solved the puzzle. Aren't we free to do what we want without ending up in a stalemate? Yes. But what if there were more of these kinds of roams? How many different roam types can we have? I would guess four: 01. Have all three of us jump to the tile indicated. 01. Have one of us jump to the tile indicated, while the other two stay on their own tile. 03. Have one of us jump to the tile indicated and the other two stay put. 03. Have one of us jump to the tile indicated, while the other two jump to another tile. To me, this would

Drugs and Crime Idle is a simulation game with emphasis on clean idle gameplay. Drug activities should never be possible in Idle Play. As an addict, you're caught in a situation where there is simply no other choice. You have a new addiction, and because it's forbidden, you need some tools to hide your addiction. As you can already imagine from its name, the game revolves around idleness: as an addict, you can't contribute too much to the society. You have to find a way to satisfy your addiction, and that's what the game is about. The most important concept of the game is the Addiction Police. You are supposed to catch addicts by watching them doing something that is illegal, and then report them to the Addiction Police. This increases your reputation and lets you earn money. For every Drug sale, you can make as much money as it costs to purchase. If you are arrested by the police, you'll also lose money. Visit the official Drugs and Crime Idle website for more information. Play the game on steam: We are pleased to announce a new DLC for Drugs and Crime Idle 2. For the first time in this game, we are making a new Business called "Barbarella's Nails Bar" open for purchase. Once the DLC is released, all businesses used for laundering money in the game will become available for purchase, with the first business being available for all players as a free DLC. All other businesses will be locked behind the DLC and unlocked when it is available. This DLC features 2 new addictions that can be purchased with 100 Loyalty points each. 1) Barbarella's Nails Bar Addiction 2) Popular Street Drug Addiction For each new Addiction you purchase, you'll get 1 free Loyalty point that can be exchanged for the business in the description. These businesses will increase your inventory, so be sure to invest in those! Check back regularly for new updates, thank you for your support!
