Part snowball fight game, part hide-and-peek, part strategy, we need to blend snowball fighting and stealth elements together to give you a fantastic 4X game. In other words, you'll be playing the role of an elite assault rifle, but you'll need to explore and stealth around to complete your objectives.

What's in it for you: -You can be the master of the art of snowball fighting while using stealth to avoid capture. -Playable in modes ranging from Melee to Team-deathmatch (and Deathmatch to Team-Deathmatch), you can play with up to 4 players. -Capture and defend flags to win the game. -Collectible props to be used in the (not yet released) single player mode and unlock new hats, skins, and more. -An improved graphics and more snow to cover the environment New Features in SnowBall-FPS: -Sneaky Update 2.0. -Extreme drop-in stealth mode and light crouch. -Upgrades like invisible cloak, faster snowballs, bazooka mode, fast run, more -Slide down slopes for fun. -Find heat / fires to restore health. -Dig / collect snow to refill your snowball supply -Animated dance moves, eg for your victory. The balance is (so far) as follows: -Sneaking is easy to do but takes a lot of time and energy to maintain stealth. -Survival is easy to do, but is less satisfying compared to snowball fighting. -Full-on snowball fighting is what's fun and satisfying but it can also be difficult to master. The New-Model is (aka. The 4X): - Snowball fighting is the best to have fun in - You can be sneaky and try to avoid capture - Play with all kinds of weapons but swords are not allowed - Collectibles are win in this mode too - Win by capturing and defending flag. - Useful to have multiple weapons (like a bazooka) because if you miss you'll be able to always try to catch the weapon before it is thrown. - Explosives (bombs) are an awesome alternative to the shot weapon, causing damage rather than instantly killing the opponent, and they have many uses besides clearing paths. - Multiple enemies can be controlled at the same time. - Much is very very easy What's about the infrastructure of Snow

From the #1 team that gave the world the Red Faction series, the creators of the No More Heroes series, and the recent winner of the IGF award, comes a fully realized, story-driven, action-packed arena brawler: DRAGON'S CROWN: ELITE EDITION! This totally new installment in the franchise introduces all new characters and weapons, allowing you to play with a fully realized arsenal of firepower, including a giant Dragon that fans of the series will definitely recognize. And don't forget the extended weapons collection--more than 20 new weapons await you in this brand new experience. Also, the complete reinvention of the Dragon style allows players to effectively use every element to their advantage, controlling the dragon's movements and combining them in every way possible to create unique and deadly offense! The creators at Wayforward Technologies are hard at work bringing you a perfect blend of open-ended play and tight controls. With them, it's clear they are creating something special. What people are saying about Dragon's Crown: Elite Edition: Gamespot - "The core premise of Dragon's Crown is simply to defeat enemy forces to keep moving forward as you climb the ranks of the arena. But there's a method to Wayforward's madness here that keeps the game from feeling like a bullet-hell brawler. You can equip a weapon that enhances your dragon's attacks, like a flaming hammer to pummel foes, or an ice sword to freeze entire sections of the arena. Naturally, you can collect pets along the way, too." 8.4/10 IGN - "Dragon's Crown: Elite Edition is a beautifully realized and well-crafted little action game that goes into some unexpected directions. And while most game in this genre would've crammed the extra stuff in, Wayforward made an unexpected stand and just went with a slick little package that lets the core gameplay shine through. The end result is an accessible game that will hopefully win over more people than it turns away." 8.5/10 Game Informer - "Sometimes, a game is so good that we overlook its faults. Case in point: Dragon's Crown: Elite Edition. Even though its predecessors have helped establish a good formula for the series, this game is such a departure that we'd almost label it a different game. Despite its proclamations of excellence, Dragon's Crown: Elite Edition is actually pretty shallow and lacks a certain charm c9d1549cdd

Hundreds of dollars in contributions have been poured into a federal campaign account designed to boost support for the Department of Homeland Security - all from the same small group of Texas-based individuals and one couple. The $2,500 donations that poured into a campaign account last year by the lobbying arm of freight giant Cheniere, the one run by top Cheniere representative Chris Chavarria, amounted to nearly half of the $5,000 reported as total political contributions by the company. What's more, the Brennan Center for Justice documents that more than a third of the $3.5 million in total contributions reported for the 2010 cycle came from companies with environmental and energy ties - almost all of them in the oil and natural gas pipeline business. These contributions are usually 100 percent legal, but some have prompted criticism as they contribute disproportionately to Democrats in a presidential election year in which the pipeline fight dominated campaign rhetoric. Cheniere officials did not respond to requests for comment for this story. They told the Houston Chronicle in May that they would not be commenting on the contributions. However, they did add in that statement that they "have followed the normal practice of the company when campaign contributions are received, which is to administer the contribution as necessary, regarding whether and if it is eligible or in the best interest of the company to donate." It appears Cheniere returned to that policy after the DHS contributions came to light and resumed the practice of donating through its political action committee, Bridge the Gulf. Bridge the Gulf has in 2012 doled out $63,850 to incumbent and U.S. Sens. David Vitter, who is up for reelection, and Tom Udall, D-N.M., who is running for a second full term. That's out of the $293,084 in total contributions reported to Bridge the Gulf, about $2.5 million more than reported for the two senators combined, or about one-fifth of what those two officeholders reported.
