Disclaimer: Any opinions, findings, conclusions, or recommendations expressed in this .Q: How to pass an array of objects via http post instead of form submission The below code works for me: function sendPost2() { var form_data = { name: $("#lname").val(), message: $("#message").val(), }; var ajax = new Ajax(); ajax.post("/wxcms/sendmailmessage.php", form_data); } How can I do the same thing but without using form submission? A: You can send a post using jQuery. From the API documentation var obj = {name: 'Sakura'}; $.post('wxcms/sendmailmessage.php', obj); This will not post a form though, so you will have to use the POST method on the form to get the effect you are looking for. Donald Trump's presidential campaign has filed a libel lawsuit against MSNBC after The Washington Post reported on former Playboy model Karen McDougal's account of an affair with the then-Republican candidate. The lawsuit, filed in a federal court in New Yorker magazine, among others, and seeks $1m (£736,000) for "false and disparaging statements". McDougal says she had an affair with Trump, which began in 2006, more than a decade before he was nominated at the Republican party's convention in July 2016. But she has claimed he did not have sex with her until their affair ended in 2010. "McDougal's contemporaneous statements about the alleged affair are authentic and not fabricated," the campaign's lawyer told the Post, calling the tabloid report a "politically-motivated and defamation campaign by Trump and his enablers". The lawsuit is the first legal action to centre on 595f342e71
